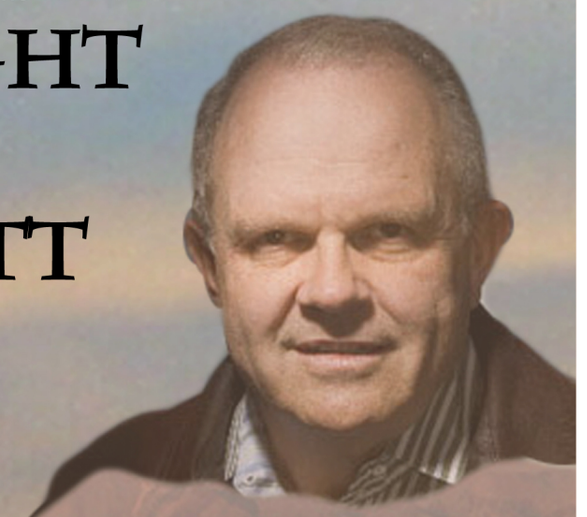
THE LAST FLIGHT OF STEVE FOSSETT

Length: 1 x 60 minutes



"The Last Flight of Steve Fossett" is the definitive one-hour documentary examining the disappearance of the millionaire adventurer.

Bush pilot and award winning television host, John Lovelace, travels to the desert community of Minden, Nevada, ground zero for the most comprehensive search in US aviation history, to get behind the headlines and piece together the clues to this incredible mystery.

Using Fossett's last known radar traces and eyewitness accounts, this timely documentary retraces his last flight over the desert and examines the most compelling theories behind his shocking disappearance. And, before the documentary is over, a new and tragic twist in the case leaves two more of America's top aviators dead.

"The Last Flight of Steve Fossett" is a thorough, suspenseful and thought provoking examination of one of the most compelling mysteries of our time. Shot in stunning HDV and brimming with aerial photography, desert landscapes, and unforgettable interview subjects, this documentary event is not to be missed.
